

DAVIDSON WAS WELL GREETED

Governor Spoke To Big Crowds At Deerfield And Stoughton This Morning.

IS TOURING STATE IN AUTOMOBILE

Town Of Deerfield Is Closed Up Tight While The Governor Speaks To The Audience In Open Air.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Stoughton, Wis., Aug. 21.—Governor Davidson is being greeted by enthusiastic audiences on his auto trip in Dane and Grant counties. His first stop was Deerfield where he arrived an hour late on account of an accident to the auto. The whole village had turned out and was waiting at the open air meeting place. The town was closed tight. The chauffeur tried to buy some chewing gum but had to wait until the governor had finished his speech. One could not buy a souvenir postal card in Deerfield while the governor was speaking. At Stoughton a good meeting was held, and another delay was occasioned because the employees of the Mandt-Wagon Factory demanded to hear the governor. The receptions are gratifying in the extreme. Davidson spoke to five hundred people in the spoke to 500 people in the opera house. All this week he is spending in an automobile outing in Dane, Rock and Grant counties, and will call at most of the important places in the southwestern part of the state. Business in the executive office has been compelled him to cut out a number of the trips he would like to make, and Governor Davidson refuses to sacrifice state affairs for political campaign interests. On this point the relations between the governor and his campaign assistants became almost strained yesterday. A trip had been planned for the governor and all was in readiness, but when the time came for departure the executive was up to his ears in important business at his office in the capitol and the campaign was told to wait until the business of the state had been attended to. The committee was insistent, but the governor had his way, and when the automobile finally started it was a day behind schedule. Had such a delay happened to the schedule of the campaigning senator or speaker, audiences would be disappointed, for their itineraries are made up long in advance and their meetings are widely advertised in order to make the best possible showing with large audiences. Governor Davidson's trips are different, and quite unique. He comes into a place unheralded, meets as many people personally as he is able to conveniently reach, chats or makes a brief speech and departs.

Havana, Aug. 21.—Secretary of State Justice O'Farrell, who was acting as the secretary of the interior, has resigned from the cabinet. Later in the day O'Farrell denied having resigned.

ILLINOIS DEMMIES FOR NEBRASKAN

Bryan's Demand That Sullivan Be Ousted Will Not Be Compelled With.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Peoria, Ill., Aug. 21.—Pre-convention utterances and the sentiment voiced in the opening addresses at the democratic state convention which assembled here today for the nomination of candidates for the state offices to be filled at the November election lead to the belief that Illinois will be added to the Bryan columns and that the endorsement of the Nebraskan will be practically unanimous. Mr. Bryan's demand that Roger C. Sullivan, democratic national committeeman from Illinois, be ousted from the national committee probably will not be complied with. The Hopkins-Sullivan followers declare that their strength in the convention is sufficient to defeat these plans, but it is not believed they will be able to make good their threats to defeat the Bryan endorsement.

ENDORSEMENTS FOR CULLOM AND CANNON

Will Be Passed by the Illinois Republicans—Governor Deneen Also Honored.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Springfield, Ill., Aug. 21.—The republican state convention met in this city today at the state arsenal. The initial session was occupied with the opening addresses, appointment of the necessary committees and other details preliminary to the chief work of the convention, which is to name candidates for state treasurer and state superintendent of public instruction. As a result of the recent state primary the Cullom forces have the upper hand in the convention, though the gathering is not expected to develop any serious factional differences. The convention will pass the Cullom resolution, declaring him the party's choice for United States Senator to succeed himself. Hearty endorsement will be given the administration of President Roosevelt and Governor Deneen. A large majority of the delegates appear to think favorably of the proposal to endorse Speaker Cannon as the choice of Illinois for the presidency. In view of Mr. Cannon's failure to express any sympathy or encouragement for the movement it is possible that the convention may refrain from the proposed endorsement in deference to what is believed to be the wish of the veteran congressman.

MASTER BUTCHERS MEET AT MILWAUKEE

Independent Slaughter Houses Will Be the Principal Topic Under Discussion.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 21.—The establishment of independent slaughter houses by the National Master Butchers of America will be discussed at the organization's twentieth annual convention which opened in Milwaukee today. The project has been under consideration for some time. While the investigation of the packing houses was not the first cause of the agitation, it has caused the master butchers to look with more favor upon the proposition. A saving of expense and absolute cleanliness are stated to be the two principal factors of the plan.

Mayor Studley welcomed the visitors, Dr. J. G. Rutherford of Ottawa, Ont., responded and President William H. Lowe of Paterson, N. J., delivered his annual address. Reports of other officers and various committees made up the program for the remainder of the day. Clinics and papers and discussions on many topics relating to veterinary medicine and surgery will occupy the next three days.

SECOND DISTRICT HAS ALL THE SYMPTOMS OF A BOLT

Candidate Comes Out Against Johnny Nelson For Congress At Special Election.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Aug. 21.—The contest for the seat of the late Congressman H. C. Adams in the second district of Wisconsin has developed a bolt in the republican party. A special election was called by the governor to fill the vacancy and the congressional district committee called caucuses to choose a nominee for the unexpired term of Mr. Adams. John M. Nelson of Madison was the practically unanimous choice of the convention held by the republicans, he receiving 39 votes out of the 46 in the convention. M. S. Dudgeon was supported in the convention by Grant E. Fallette-Lenroot slate. It was discovered that all of Nelson's friends and relatives were "Davidson" and Frear supporters, and opposed to La Follette's slate. Then the office force of Candidate Houser went after Mr. Nelson's scalp.

FOOTBALL RULES OF THE COMING SEASON

More Open Play Will Characterize the Game For the Present Year.
The main changes in the football rules for next fall were published when made last winter, and those who are interested in the game and who are now having a general idea of the radical changes adopted by the rules committee. Several important changes have been made for the coming season. Probably the most radical change has been the doubling of the distance to be gained in the three downs. The game played under the new rules will undoubtedly be more open and ought as a consequence, to prove more interesting to the spectators. The average spectator has often been confused whether a safety or a touchback was made, and indeed referees and players have not been altogether clear on the point. The following rule has cleared this point: "It is a touchback when a player on the defense permits a ball kicked by the opponent to strike his person, and then roll across the goal line and any player of his side then falls on it back of the line. If, however, such player juggles the ball so that he in any way forces it over the line, and he or any player of his side falls on it, it is a safety." The old rule which provided that a safety or touchback must be kicked out from the 25-yard line and if it goes out of bounds twice in succession will be given to the opponents as an outside ball, has been changed somewhat by this change: "If the ball goes out of bounds before striking a player it must be kicked out again, and if it occurs twice in succession it shall be given to the opponents as out of bounds on the twenty-five yard line on the side where it went out. The length of the game has been shortened by ten minutes, making the two halves each thirty minutes in length. It has also been provided that a player in the line must have both hands or both feet up to or within one foot of the line of scrimmage. Hurdling is defined and forbidden in the new rules. Regarding the taking out of time it is provided that either captain may ask for time three times during the half. There must always be at least six men on the side in possession of the ball on the line of scrimmage. One forward pass shall be allowed in each scrimmage. Offenses are punishable not only by disqualification of the players, but also by the loss of half the distance to its own goal line. On penalties that would carry the ball to or across the goal line, where formerly the distance has been halved the ball will now be placed at the one yard line.

FOR THE RELIEF OF FIVE POINTS

RAILROADS ABOUT READY TO CO-OPERATE WITH CITY.

DR. JUDD ON POLICE BOARD

Dr. Chittenden Will Hold City Liable for Any Injury to His Auto on N. Academy Street.

With reference to an order instructing him to prepare plans for the disposal of the storm water at the Five Points intersection of Pleasant, West Milwaukee, and Madison streets and Center avenue, City Engineer Kerch submitted a communication to the council last evening calling attention to the fact that he had reported such plans on Oct. 12, 1903; that a committee was appointed at that time to confer with the C. & N. W. and St. Paul railroad officials; that the matter was carried up to the North-Western general manager's office and had rested there. Recently, through the assistance of local attorneys, the matter had been brought to the attention of the officials again and yesterday R. H. Ashton, general manager of the North-Western, and other officials submitted a proposal to pay one-half the cost of the proposed main 42-inch sewer across the right-of-way, provided the St. Paul road would join in the project of bearing the expense of the other half. A representative of the last-named railroad company had attended the conference with his superiors at once. The report was received and placed on file and further time was granted the judiciary committee for the consideration of the claims for damages filed by P. C. Burpee, Eliza F. Burpee, Kate Richter and John and Richard Brown.

Contract for Sewers
The street assessment committee reported that on Aug. 10 sealed proposals had been received from four contractors for furnishing the material and labor for the construction of sewers in districts 5, 6, 10, 11, 12, 14, and 15, and offered a resolution to the effect that the contract be awarded to Hudding & Nelson of Racine, the lowest bidder. The resolution was carried. An ordinance requiring all persons cleaning out vaults to secure permission from the health officer to ply that vocation and to remove such contents into tight metallic boxes provided with tight fitting covers made of the same material, with a penalty of from $1 to $25 for violation thereof, was given its third reading and placed on passage.

Several Reports Received
The city marshal's report for the month of July was accepted. It showed arrests totaling 86—one for violation of city ordinances, 1 for larceny, 1 for embezzlement, and 1 for larceny. Twenty-nine prisoners were taken to court and 67 discharged. The arrests were made as follows: Appleby, 19; Brown, 20; Beneke, 11; Bear, 11; Champion, 10; Fanning, 15; Morrissey, 7; Dulin, 1; Palmer, 1; and Dalton, 1.

Supt. C. A. Potter of the stone crusher reported that during the two weeks ending Aug. 15 fifteen men had been employed $91. fifteen. Five hundred and five yards of stone had been delivered.

The municipal court had turned over to the city treasurer during July revenues from fines, court fees, and city marshal's fees amounting to $73.57 and to the county treasurer, $9.95.

The reports of the finance committee on bills and the salary list were accepted; likewise the assistant street commissioner's report on new sidewalk needed.

Judd on Police Commission
Mayor Hutchinson announced that he had appointed Dr. W. H. Judd as a member of the five and police commission, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Dr. E. D. Roberts. The appointment was confirmed. Similar action was taken with regard to the appointment of P. F. Mulquin as special police officer with out pay at the scene of the washout from Aug. 9 to Sept. 10. His honor also reported that pursuant to the instructions of the council he had made a settlement with P. F. Burns made with regard to the sidewalk approach to the Fourth avenue bridge on the basis of $50.55. The finance committee was granted further time for the consideration of Rev. Mary Kimball's request that back taxes on the mission property be refunded and the city attorney was instructed to ascertain the date of transfer of the place to the Free Baptist association.

To Order the Janesville Electric Co.
By an order the Janesville Electric Co. was granted the privilege of laying and operating steam heating pipes along and under River street and covering the same. M. G. Jeffris said that the material had been telegraphed for and would be on hand before the contractors were ready to lay brick. The city clerk was instructed to draw an order on the city treasurer for $125 payable to J. G. Thompson for injuries sustained by reason of a defective sidewalk; also another for $25 payable to Frank Zamboni to meet the cost of repairing the damage to his property in the Fourth Ward caused by an overflow of water about a year ago.

Dr. Chittenden Served Notice
That he would hold the city liable for any injury to himself or his automobile resulting from the defective condition of North Academy street. The judiciary committee was granted further time for the consideration of the notice. The same committee reported that the bond of Handling & Nelson was not properly filled out, but moved that it be accepted when it could be approved by the city attorney. Kohler & Cassaday, engaged in painting the Court street bridge, were granted the temporary use of twenty planks for a raft on condition that the lumber be religiously returned.

No Bandstand This Year
Ald. Brockhaus introduced a resolution providing for the creation of a bandstand in the Court House park and calling on the city engineer to draw plans for a structure not exceeding $500 in cost. Ald. Connel offered an amendment to the effect that the matter be laid over until next year. The amendment and motion was amended carried. The city clerk was directed to have 25 copies of the city charter bound in cloth. By the passage of a resolution introduced by Ald. Dulin the fifth ward was allowed to increase its ward levy from $2,000 to $3,000, the action, being made necessary by the projected building of a storm sewer on West Milwaukee and Pleasant streets near the Five Points.

To Junkt to Chicago
A resolution introduced by Chairman Connell of the finance committee accepting the invitation to the city officials to attend the 10th annual convention of the League of American Municipalities at Chicago, Sept. 26-28, and providing that the mayor and the five aldermen not receiving salaries should attend, expenses to be paid by the city, was passed with great enthusiasm.

Read Reports and Walks
The petition of ten owners of property on the east side of Forest Park avenue asking that the present park walk line remain unchanged was held over for consideration by the third ward aldermen. Owners of property on the north side of Highland avenue were granted permission to build 42-foot walks. The street commissioner was instructed to build crosswalks across Chatham street on the north side of Pleasant; across Pleasant on the west side of Adams; and across Sharon on the south side of Dixon to the south side of the Delavan road. He was also instructed to clean the gutters on Caroline street, on the east of Lynn street from Pleasant to Clarion, on the north and south sides of Western avenue from the east side of Lynn to Jackson street and along Jackson street to the river, on Chatham street between River and Pleasant and to repair the washouts on Beloit avenue near the Buch brewery; likewise on east Racine street. The matter of vacating an alley on property owned by J. M. Bostwick which he wishes to dispose of for a leaf warehouse was mentioned, but no action was taken.

By Way of Retaliation
By way of suspected retaliation on Alderman Watt for certain caustic notices in a local newspaper, credited to his pen and having to do with the alleged delivery recently of plank taken from the Jackson street bridge at the homes of some of the city officials, Mayor Hutchinson sprung a mild sensation just as the meeting was closing. His remarks were as follows: "There's been considerable said in the past about plank belonging to the city being taken by the aldermen and the mayor. Perhaps it was true in some particulars and perhaps it wasn't in others. I will say that there's also been delivered to the alleged aldermen and delivered to the city clerk. Certain things were published in the papers about the plank and they have been returned. If aldermen have received city dirt they should return that also."

Alderman Watt: "Two months ago I spoke to Street Commissioner Bennett, asking him if he had any dirt which it would be convenient to haul to my premises to so dispose of it. He hauled five loads to a lot I own on Wisconsin street, assuring me that it was a shorter haul than to the dumping ground on the island. Then he found it too hard a place for the teams and sent no more there. That's all there is to the terrible dirt scandal."

Mayor Hutchinson: "This matter came up two weeks ago. Alderman Merritt said he had received plank and was willing to pay for them, but he was not allowed to do so. All aldermen should be treated alike. A motion to adjourn has been offered."

BAXTER PROPOSITION WORTH CONSIDERING
Agent for the New Corporation is in the City to Dispose of Stock.
The largest jack mine in the world, the Baxter, is located at Cuba City, Wis. The mine has recently been sold for $600,000. The parties purchasing have capitalized it for $1,000,000, but of this only 150 shares will be sold. The receipts from the sale of stock will be entirely in paying for the mine and in installing machinery of greater capacity.

Mr. T. J. Matthews, representing Wallace H. Hopkins Co., fiscal agents, is in the city for a few days and can be seen at the Empire Hotel, where he will be pleased to meet any one wishing to purchase stock in this mine and to give them all desired information. All propositions heretofore promoted by the Wallace H. Hopkins Co. have been over-subscribed. This company is to be congratulated on having secured the Baxter, and there is every reason to suppose that it will be as big a dividend payer as the other properties handled by this well known company. Many people from here have visited this mine and all have been impressed with the immense bodies of ore in sight. These ore bodies, together with others which have been thoroughly located by drills, insure a long life for the Baxter.

Harris Machine Hauled by William Albright Crashed into on Downtown Corner.

After hundreds of predictions which have been made ever since autos became common in Janesville, the second wreck of the summer occurred at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets last night. However, the collision was not with a pedestrian or horse and carriage, but the auto was struck by a street car. The machine was crumpled by Harris and a number of lady guests and was being driven by William Albright. He was endeavoring to turn about when a car, in charge of Motorman Kelly, rounded the corner. The chauffeur attempted to take his car from the tracks, but in reversing so quickly "killed" his engine. The car failed to stop before reaching the railroad and did some damage. The box was scratched and marred; one wheel-guard was broken; the cushions on the rear seat were torn and one tire was torn off, resulting in the explosion of the inner tube. A court action may result from the accident. The women who were in the car were terribly frightened and their screams were heard for blocks.

New Yorker Elected to Fill Vacancy on High School Faculty—Miss Orcutt Resigns.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Education last evening two new teachers were chosen to fill vacancies caused by resignations from the teaching corps of the public schools. Miss Orcutt of Palo Alto, Calif., who came here during the middle of last year in place of Miss Lund, has secured an excellent position in her home state and will return to Janesville and her place in the Latin and Greek department of the high school. William Veyman of Hemstead, Long Island, New York, was chosen. He is a graduate of the Georgetown University and comes highly recommended. Miss Sarah Venable, who has taught the seventh grade of the Lincoln school several years, has left the public service. Miss Emma Whitmore, elected to the third grade of the Lincoln school earlier in the year, was appointed to the place and Miss Mabel West of Milton Junction was selected for the third grade. Little other business of importance was transacted.

This is the reason doctors say that Pabst Blue Ribbon is really to be preferred above any other beer as to its cleanliness and the purity of its ingredients and it is the most strengthening and refreshing beer because so rich in the food elements of barley malt and the tonic properties of hops.

It is truly said that Pabst has spent millions of dollars just to insure the absolute cleanliness and purity of his product. The immense Pabst Brewery of Milwaukee, built on high land in the residence section of the city—far away from the dirt and dust of the factory and shipping district, is a model of cleanliness and the whole Pabst process is a positive guarantee of an "absolutely clean" beer. From the time the malt is mashed, all through the long process of brewing, until you pour it into your glass, Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer never comes in contact with anything but pure air and sterilized water.

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is brewed in large, thick-walled copper kettles and stored in large, clean, thoroughly sterilized tanks. It is pasteurized against any possibility of contamination.

STREET CAR STRUCK AUTO LAST EVENING

Harris Machine Hauled by William Albright Crashed into on Downtown Corner.

After hundreds of predictions which have been made ever since autos became common in Janesville, the second wreck of the summer occurred at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets last night. However, the collision was not with a pedestrian or horse and carriage, but the auto was struck by a street car. The machine was crumpled by Harris and a number of lady guests and was being driven by William Albright. He was endeavoring to turn about when a car, in charge of Motorman Kelly, rounded the corner. Take care of your advertising, and your advertising will take care of you!

Davidson is touring the southern portion of the state in an automobile. He may hit Janesville by this route yet.

School days will soon be here and the small boy will have to abandon his swimming hole and fish rod for the slate and spelling book.

That boom of Cannon's down in Illinois, this afternoon is only the republican delegates at Springfield greeting their "Presidential" favorite with a proper salute.

Janesville is a peculiar city. During the summer vacations there is no one district where the youths work during their play period to such an extent as they do here.

The cooling summer breezes that should be present these hot days appear to have been lost sight of. Probably it is because of the hot campaign that is being waged that we feel the heat more.

Irving Lenroot has struck one chord in his addresses that is worth being considered—good roads. This is an important factor in city and village life and should be endorsed by every candidate.

John, Alward of Madison, a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, says his opponent, State Senator Merton of Waukesha, is not a democrat. Why, John, how cruel you are to poor Mister Merton!

Mr. Houser writes Mr. Alward that he has misunderstood his letters. He does not intend to refuse to allow the democratic investigating committee to view the state books, he only meant to aid them in their work.

In his speeches yesterday Senator La Follette praised William J. Bryan. It for that, that as Bryan praises his dear friend, La Follette. Too bad Tom Reed is not alive, so that he could say of La Follette as he once said of Cooper, "He is not a republican."

The Beloit papers, aided by the Racine Times, say that no one but disappointed officeholders are supporting Nolan. It might better be said that no one but would be aspirants for office are supporting Cooper. Viz, the Beloit News and Beloit Free Press.

It appears that Davidson has a few friends left in Rock county despite the wonderful persuasive powers of the Senator last Saturday night. To hear them talk one would be impressed with the idea they did not think much of the effort from a political standpoint, but from the view of self-praise it was a dandy.

DOWN IN ILLINOIS
Down in Illinois today two state conventions are being held. One is democratic, at which Roger Sullivan, "Jolly Roger," expects to control matters and endorse Bryan for president, despite the fact that the astute Mr. Bryan, says he does not want to be endorsed. If Sullivan is still an Illinois member of the national committee, at the other all will be harmony. Callum will be endorsed for United States Senator. "Dicky" Yates lost sight of and Cannon "boomed" for the presidential nomination.

QUESTION ANSWERED
After a long dissertation on the greatness of Congressman Cooper, the would-be Beloit postoffice organ, the Daily News, asks: "Can Mr. Nolan fill the niche occupied by Mr. Cooper and does the first district care to experiment in the matter of filling so important an office as that of representative in congress?" The answer is plain: Yes. The district does want to change an uncertainty for a certainty. A man who betrays his constituency by his vote on a bill vital to their interests deserves no votes nor any sympathy. By all means nominate Nolan.

THE IMPORTANCE
Voters should not be unmindful of the importance of the primary election. Every republican voter should take an interest in the primary election and be at the polls on primary day to cast his vote for his choice of candidates. Rock county and the legislative and congressional districts, of which it is a part, are so strongly republican that a nomination is equivalent to an election, because the candidates nominated are practically certain to be elected. It is, therefore, just as important to Rock county and the state that the voters get out on primary election day as on election day.

AN EXAMPLE
The Gazette has maintained that Congressman Cooper has lost all touch and interest in his former constituency for some time past. As a proof of this assertion the following paragraph from one of Cooper's official mouthpieces, the Beloit Free Press, is quoted. Of course it is understood that the Free Press hopes to land the editor in the postmaster's by its repudiation of the farmers' interests and hence may be a little more radical than it would otherwise be; but the spirit is the same. The first portion of the article deals with what Cooper has done for the district. It tells of the thousands of dollars he has appropriated or had appropriated for this district in the past fourteen years and then concludes with this significant statement: "What more can these faultfinders require of Congressman Cooper in the way of appropriations unless it be that he shall secure them to make Rock river navigable or to provide canals to protect the tobacco crop from destructive hail?"

GIVE THEM A CHANCE
Cotton manufacturers in portions of Virginia and North Carolina have found difficulty in introducing foreign labor into their mills. The native help objected to the employment of Germans and Italians and refused for the time being to work with them. In such cases the objector is nearly always the loser. Native labor very properly is not willing to work longer hours, or to meet the requirements of the growing industry, even if it could. The only remedy is in the immigration of labor from where it exists in abundance to where scarcity prevails. The contact of people of different race, language and habits of life, is always one of antagonism, which sooner or later disappears, as the well-disposed newcomer is gradually absorbed into the community. It will take some time for this adjustment to take place, but the new arrival will usually give a good account of himself, first as a wage-earner and, secondly as a citizen. His manner of living may shock the sensibilities of the older residents; there may be a jar to established traditions; but be patient, and give these peoples time to prove their worth. Here, as elsewhere, if given an opportunity they will become an element of strength rather than a source of weakness to their adopted community.

PRESS COMMENT

Source of Lenroot's Strength.
Milwaukee News: Mr. Lenroot may be a "strong" man, but his strength lies in his less, and has been developed in dancing to La Follette's music.

Thinks It Could Spare One.
Milwaukee Sentinel: South Dakota may lose one of its senators through the changing of the channel of the Missouri river. No such luck for Wisconsin.

Up Against the Original.
Exchange: In abandoning his trip to the north pole Walter Wellman no doubt came to the conclusion that it would be useless to buck the original ice trust.

Has Widened Sphere of Vice.
Chicago News: Once acquired, the gambling passion grows worse. From playing the ponies King Edward has fallen to playing the New York stock market.

Our Tactless War Department.
Exchange: Having permitted that proposed Father Sherman march through Georgia, the war department further evinced its rare tact by sending negro troops to Texas.

Editor Hick's Predicament.
Milwaukee Journal: Col. John Hicks, after jumping assurances made by the political earthquake in Wisconsin for several years, seems to have flown to Texas; that he knew not of in Chile.

No Autos For Roosevelt.
Cleveland Leader: President Roosevelt maintains his prejudice against the automobile. He will not buy one, or take one as a gift, and he will not ride in one.

Right Sort of a Mixture.
Madison Democrat: Madison streets show steady improvement, and all because of the application of a little common sense, mixed with crushed stone, to their preservation.

Cannot Stifle Voice of World.
El Paso Herald: Kaiser Wilhelm is saying unpleasant things about the responsibility of the press. And this from a ruler who daily jails his half dozen editors or so for getting say.

Tired of the Wrangle.
Racine Journal: The people of Wisconsin want factionalism terminated, not perpetuated as the speeches of Senator La Follette discouraging harmony unless with his interpretation will do if followed out.

Puff-blast of Mercy.
Exchange: The San Francisco Chronicle moves a vote to reconsider the nicknaming autos "devil wagons"—it says that in the city's recent tough experience the buzz cars proved ministering angels.

Surely Dietz Still Lives.
Green Bay Gazette: The last rumor in connection with Cameron dam was that its defender had been killed. There was, of course, no truth in the report as Dietz has not and will not be a dead one for a long time.

Even the Iceberg Melted.
Chicago Record-Herald: Dispatches from Indianapolis say Mr. Fairbanks smiled when he was told of the launching of "Uncle Joe" Cannon's presidential boom. Anything that will cause Mr. Fairbanks to smile is worth while.

A Real Old Summer.
Marquette Eagle-Star: This has been a real summer. One of the old-fashioned variety that used to make the swimming hole the swarming place of the youngsters. Two fingers used to be the secret sign of the boys at that time.

Harmony that Resembles Apathy.
Exchange: There is so much harmony among the democrats of the state that even the rival candidates are willing to work for each other. In fact, the harmony is so dense as to strongly resemble apathy.

Letting Him Off Easy.
Sheboygan Journal: A small boy and an iron nut caused the wreck of the Ashland, limited last Sunday night. The only thing needed to complete that combination is an old fashioned hickory sprout in violent contact with the rear elevation of the boy's trousers.

Yet Another Chautauqua Recruit.
Fond du Lac Commonwealth: Now that William Randolph Hearst has blossomed out as a Chautauqua orator, Bryan and some of the other present day politicians, republicans as well as democrats, will have to look to their laurels.

Horse-fair Promoter Roasted.
Rockford Register-Gazette: The Beloit News hands Col. Horton, who promoted the fair there this week, a few hard jolts. It calls him "Jack Rabbit." Horton and says the fair was a raw fake, operated by a man with iron nerve. But the News didn't say it until the fair was over.

Has Good Press Agent Anyway.
Chicago Inter Ocean: The first announcement of Mrs. Carter-Payne's salary for the ensuing year is, sufficiently reassuring to enable us to feel confident that later announcements will not have a tendency to cheapen real art in the estimation of those who are struggling along on $3 a week.

Courtesy Appreciated.
Superior Telegram: Straws show which way the wind blows—and little acts of courtesy show where the heart is. During the national G. A. R. encampment in Minneapolis this week the young ladies and young men of that city gave up their seats in the street cars to visitors wearing the G. A. R. button.

Lenroot's Patron Ghost.
Two Rivers Chronicle: The ghost of A. R. Hall, like the ghost of old John Brown, seems to do a good deal of marching on a program of not embarrassing W. J. Bryan. He is the hearty choice of both parties in his state for the presidential nomination and will be harder to beat in Nebraska than Mark Hanna found it in 1900.

Thinks Nebraska's Cinched.
La Crosse Leader-Press: The democrats and populists of Nebraska have fused on a program of not embarrassing W. J. Bryan. He is the hearty choice of both parties in his state for the presidential nomination and will be harder to beat in Nebraska than Mark Hanna found it in 1900.

Partial, But Trying to be Fair.
Oshkosh Northwestern: The Milwaukee Free Press is evidently doing its best to follow Uncle Ike's instructions to take no sides during the primary contest, and is furnishing very full and fair reports of the political speeches made by the campaigners on both sides. But somehow it cannot resist the temptation to give precedence to the La Follette speeches; by giving them the preferred position of first page, first column.

The Senator Forgets.
Stoughton Hub: In his speech at Mount Horeb Tuesday morning Senator La Follette is reported to have said: "You never saw me perched up the fence in the politics of Wisconsin. When I believe a thing I believe it with all there is in me, and I follow my convictions and talk it out with the people." Where was the senator in the Spooner campaign and the two Scofield campaigns? Was he on the fence or under the fence? Certain it is that he did not talk it out with the people, as he sulked in his tent and could not be coaxed, driven or dragged into the campaign for a single speech. The senator forgets.

Pine Trees Made Into Silk.
Harper's Magazine: About five tons of artificial silk are now manufactured daily in Europe and the demand far exceeds the supply. This is one of the many modern products of cellulose, that wonderful substance which the microscopic cells of plants are made and which compose about one-third of all the vegetable and animal matter in the world. Robert Kennedy Duncan, now professor of industrial chemistry in the University of Kansas, points out its possibilities for the manufacturer. For instance, he writes: "A pine tree is worth $10 a ton; cut and stripped it is worth $15; boiled into pulp it is worth $40; bleached it is worth $55, which turned into viscose and spun into silk is worth $5500."

Remarkable Events in Mason City.
Chicago Chronicle: Two remarkable telegrams were printed from Mason City, Iowa, yesterday. One announced that the thermometer in that city stood at 116 in the shade and the other that the Methodists there had decided to take the communion wine with a spoon, as a more sanitary method than sipping. Whether there is any necessary connection between these two announcements is not plain, but it may be amiss to suggest that straw would be an improvement on spoons, as they are cheaper and might be kept in the hymn book racks in the pews.

Bad Manners Lightly Punished.
New York Globe: It is distinctly bad manners, not to say "fresh," for a visiting alien to hiss the emblems of the country in which he is sojourning. Even the sophisticated form of patriotism which leads the "ten, twenty, thirty" stage hero dare the hated Britisher "to come on," while madly waving an abbreviated sample of the stars and stripes, is not open to criticism, at least by a foreigner in the audience. The Englishman who under such circumstances down in Bayonne the other night publicly expressed his contempt for the yankee flag deserved rougher treatment than he received, not because he likes the "old country" better than the States, which, of course, he should do, but because he was such a fool as to blurt out this fact where it might have caused a riot. He was fined $25 in court next day for creating a disturbance. If this patriotic outburst had occurred on the Bowery he would probably have been soundly thrashed by the audience.

KICKERS' KOLUM.
To the Editor: I desire to know if pedestrians on our streets have any rights which shopkeepers are bound to respect. The practice of sweeping sidewalks and washing windows between 7 and 8 a.m. is an insufferable annoyance and a menace to health. If there is no ordinance against such abuses there should be and it should be enforced to the letter. It is possible to lodge the long-handled window brush and is pretty good exercise, experience, but how about the millions of disease germs which insidious sweepers stir up for us to inhale and swallow? We shudder when we read the packinghouse disclosures and some of us who were not vegetarians were afraid to look at the morning paper until after our breakfast had "settled," but we complacently brave these fogs of street filth six mornings of every week and say nothing about it, except perhaps to swear softly to ourselves. The horsepower sweeper is also not above criticism as to the hours when it is employed. He sometimes begins too early in the night. VES AMER.

Condemns "Doping" of Workmen.
In his charge to a Warren county (Ala.) grand jury Judge Rush drew attention to the alleged "doping" with cocaine of roustabouts by steamboat mates. The judge stated that it had come to his ears that the mates carried a supply of the deadly drug, which they gave to the negroes in liberal doses. When stimulated by the drug the roustabout's capacity for work is greatly increased, but, by the time the trip is ended he is a physical and mental wreck.

Wonders of the Age.
To keep the water ways to Asia open has saved all the cities of the eastern Mediterranean. But the movement from Greece and Italy, from the Black sea, even from Portugal, to the United States is as remarkable as the stability of the Turkish empire, which is as good as any of the Christian states near it, or it never would have stood so long.

For you have not hurt me a particle and I know I have received good work and your prices are very reasonable."

GENERAL FUND TO BEAR THE BURDEN

OF RECONSTRUCTING DESTROYED SECTION OF WASHINGTON ST.

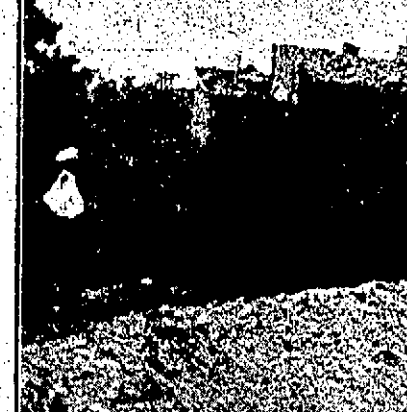

LONG TILT WITH THE LAW

Failed to Completely Reconcile Best Policy and Legality in Minds of Aldermen.

After a prolonged star-chamber session with the lawyers the city council decided just before midnight, by a vote of 6 to 4, to stand by its action of August 9 and pay for the filling of the Washington street washout from the general fund. Ald. Buchholz had introduced a resolution stipulating that the council's action on that previous date with relation to the repairing of the Lovejoy culvert be repealed; in so far as it provided for the payment of any part thereof from the general fund. City Attorney Maxfield when called upon for an opinion had held that under no consideration could this money be made payable from the ward fund.

He had consulted the attorney general and the latter had ruled to the effect that the ward fund was not liable for the reconstruction of that street. The supreme court had held that a reconstruction was in no sense a repair; that a repair was the putting in condition of what had originally been used, while in this case nothing of the original section of the highway which might contribute to a restoration remained. Ald. Buchholz emphasized the fact that his measure was merely negative in character and did not stipulate what fund the appropriation should be made from.

The first ballot on the resolution was as follows: For passage—Brookhaus, Buchholz, Connell, Sheridan, and Watt; against passage—Dulin, Fish, Hager, and Morrill. Alderman Rudolph had quietly taken his departure from the council chamber and the city marshal was requested to find him and bring him back. In the interim various phases of the matter were discussed—some fund would have to bear the burden; no additional tax levy could be made after twelve o'clock, Aug. 20 being the last date permitted by law for such action; the first ward was prevented by law from making a levy equal to the amount needed; even were it disposed to do so, and also from borrowing; unless the city stood willing to meet the expense the first ward would have to fence up the hole and block traffic for an indefinite period; the aldermen feared that whichever way they voted they might be laying themselves liable to a $50 fine.

A Protracted Recess
Upon Ald. Rudolph's return Ald. Connell moved that the council take a five-minute recess before voting on the question again and invite Attorneys M. G. Jeffris and George Sutherland, who were present at the session to the conference room. The motion carried. The two attorneys in question carefully went through the charter, the statutes, and the attorney general's opinion with the city attorney. They found that the attorney general had based his opinion on a misconception of the charter—that he had certain points wrong-side to. They did not agree with the city attorney that the expense was payable from the general fund, though it was quite evident that the ward could not shoulder it. Mr. Jeffris held, however, that the aldermen would not subject themselves to a penalty by voting in accordance with the city attorney's opinion, even if it were wrong, unless it could be shown that there had been a willful disregard of the charter's provisions. On the final resolution calling for the repudiation of the former action was lost, the vote being as follows: In favor of it—Buchholz, Connell, Rudolph, and Sheridan; against it—Brookhaus, Dulin, Fish, Hager, Morrill, and Watt.

P. W. Ryan Gets Contract
The street assessment committee reported that the following bids for the filling of the washout had been received: P. W. Ryan, 42 cents a cubic yard; James Ryan, 42 cents a yard; R. F. Finley, 46 cents a yard; Isaac Connors, 48 cents a yard; A. Rutledge, 60 cents a yard, and offered a resolution to the effect that that of the first-named, being the lowest, be accepted. The resolution passed. About 9,000 yards of filling will be needed. That will make the expense about $3,800. A resolution introduced by Ald. Morrill provided that the first ward tax levy of $3,500 made July 9, 1906, be increased to $6,500, was passed. The sponsor of the measure said that it would require all of the additional money and more too, to put in the culvert at the washout.

THEIR ESCAPES MIRACULOUS

TWO ENGINEMEN WOULD SURELY HAVE BEEN INJURED.

IN YESTERDAY'S ACCIDENT

Had They Not Jumped—Locomotive Leaped Four Feet Into the Air.

The escape of the four engine-men who occupied the cabs of the two engines that were wrecked on the Davis Junction branch of the St. Paul road yesterday unscathed was seemingly by miracle. The engine and fireman on the freight leaped before the crash but had they not they surely would have been injured seriously if not killed, for the locomotive when it struck the big mogul leaped full four feet into the air and plunged nose first into the sand bank. The fireman on the work train engine also jumped to safety and Engineer Mills, who remained at the throttle was saved only by his own coolness. The accompanying pictures show two views of the freight locomotive.

CHAPTER IX. THE DOOR WITH THE BROKEN KNOB.

But all the conscience-tortured ghosts that ever walked by night, all the pirates, and all the musty memories which haunt an ancient French pension, could not keep two travel-weary girls from sleeping. At nine o'clock in the morning, Artemise, with coffee and rolls, knocked twice before they awakened.

Presently they burst into the hall, enthusiastic and slugging; for the sun shone bright, Carnival had come, and the beautiful world was full of things for them to do.

"My love is a rover without a care, Gay as a robin, and fleet as a hare."

Alice sang gaily as she raced along the hall and stopped at her mother's door. She tapped lightly; there was no reply.

"Don't wake her yet," Anita suggested. "Let's explore."

"All right," Alice eagerly agreed. They tripped, one behind the other, like dime-novel heroines, to the balcony. The girls leaned over the railing and looked down upon an oval courtyard. It was dull and dim below, a sanctuary of perpetual twilight. Still green palms in greener barrels ranged themselves with mathematical regularity, one at the base of each column. Heavy green benches, that no one ever came to sit upon, stood between. A solemn parrot marched back and forth on the back of a bench.

Some one had been at breakfast. The two girls looked curiously down at the little table to see what sort of breakfast these people would have. Coffee, smoking in the cup, some funny little twisted rolls, a box of cigarettes, a newspaper—that seemed to be all. But whoever it was had eaten and gone.

A fountain splashed in the center of the court, choking like a child with the whooping-cough, then sputtering out again. Two love-making pigeons strutted, along the coping with their peculiar "coo-coo-coo." The parrot nearly burst his throat trying to imitate, then scolded at them.

"Just like some of those queer old places that," Balzac writes about, Alice whispered as if she were afraid to talk aloud. "Aren't you glad we came?"

"Yes; but it doesn't look like the same place we came to last night; I'm all turned around."

Alice glanced at her bare hands, and sprang up. "I've left my rings—let me run and get them." She darted back to their room, leaving Anita to wander aimlessly around the balcony.

At the head of the stair, Anita stopped and leaned on the rail again, watching the fountain. She had much to think about, and this was a very quiet place.

Without meaning to listen, she became conscious of a mumbering of voices, somewhere down the stairs. It was such a queerly constructed house, so arched and vaulted, so full of baffling echoes that she became curious to know where the sounds really came from. At first she thought they came from directly across the court, out of that queer little passage-way which looked as though it might lead to a crypt. Then the sounds seemed to be right at her feet, directly underneath.

There was a little room at the foot of the stair; Anita could see that the door was not shut tightly, the men must be in there. She listened, quite as negligently as she listened to the fountain or the parrot. Suddenly she started, and grasped the rail. She heard quite plainly, in a louder and angrier tone: "But I tell you I won't wait; can't you understand plain English? I must leave New Orleans at once!"

Disguised as it was by the hollow echoes of the house, Anita felt sure that she recognized the voice of Noel Duke.

Then she heard the Frenchman, Monsieur Victor—she was sure it was he—"Zat I can not do, monsieur; it would ruin the reputation of my house. Ladies would be afraid to come here; a lady must be always protect."

"But I will pay you—I will pay you more than—"

"Bah, what is money to you? You laugh, monsieur, I laugh at your money."

The men tried to be cautious; Anita could not hear what was said; only a broken sentence or two came up; that was all—not enough for her to understand. But they were talking earnestly.

The Frenchman's voice rose again: "Vair good; you go away; you come to his house no more; zen I say nothing; no one shall ever know."

A door slammed. "Anita was still listening to that when Alice called: "Anita, oh, Anita, come here; I can't find my rings anywhere."

"The men had gone; Anita saw Monsieur Victor come out of the little room and walk through the entry toward the front."

"Come back here; please come," Alice called again from the room. Puzzled and worried more than she would admit, she went back to her cousin.

Alice had rummaged around in her room and turned everything topsy-turvy. She stood in the midst of chaos, and looked bewildered. "I can't find them anywhere; do you remember?"

"All right," Alice eagerly agreed. They tripped, one behind the other, like dime-novel heroines, to the balcony. The girls leaned over the railing and looked down upon an oval courtyard. A door slammed. "Anita was still listening to that when Alice called: "Anita, oh, Anita, come here; I can't find my rings anywhere."

"The men had gone; Anita saw Monsieur Victor come out of the little room and walk through the entry toward the front."

"Come back here; please come," Alice called again from the room. Puzzled and worried more than she would admit, she went back to her cousin.

Alice had rummaged around in her room and turned everything topsy-turvy. She stood in the midst of chaos, and looked bewildered. "I can't find them anywhere; do you remember?"

"All right," Alice eagerly agreed. They tripped, one behind the other, like dime-novel heroines, to the balcony. The girls leaned over the railing and looked down upon an oval courtyard. It was dull and dim below, a sanctuary of perpetual twilight. Still green palms in greener barrels ranged themselves with mathematical regularity, one at the base of each column. Heavy green benches, that no one ever came to sit upon, stood between. A solemn parrot marched back and forth on the back of a bench.

Some one had been at breakfast. The two girls looked curiously down at the little table to see what sort of breakfast these people would have. Coffee, smoking in the cup, some funny little twisted rolls, a box of cigarettes, a newspaper—that seemed to be all. But whoever it was had eaten and gone.

A fountain splashed in the center of the court, choking like a child with the whooping-cough, then sputtering out again. Two love-making pigeons strutted, along the coping with their peculiar "coo-coo-coo." The parrot nearly burst his throat trying to imitate, then scolded at them.

"Just like some of those queer old places that," Balzac writes about, Alice whispered as if she were afraid to talk aloud. "Aren't you glad we came?"

"Yes; but it doesn't look like the same place we came to last night; I'm all turned around."

Alice glanced at her bare hands, and sprang up. "I've left my rings—let me run and get them." She darted back to their room, leaving Anita to wander aimlessly around the balcony.

At the head of the stair, Anita stopped and leaned on the rail again, watching the fountain. She had much to think about, and this was a very quiet place.

Without meaning to listen, she became conscious of a mumbering of voices, somewhere down the stairs. It was such a queerly constructed house, so arched and vaulted, so full of baffling echoes that she became curious to know where the sounds really came from. At first she thought they came from directly across the court, out of that queer little passage-way which looked as though it might lead to a crypt. Then the sounds seemed to be right at her feet, directly underneath.

There was a little room at the foot of the stair; Anita could see that the door was not shut tightly, the men must be in there. She listened, quite as negligently as she listened to the fountain or the parrot. Suddenly she started, and grasped the rail. She heard quite plainly, in a louder and angrier tone: "But I tell you I won't wait; can't you understand plain English? I must leave New Orleans at once!"

Disguised as it was by the hollow echoes of the house, Anita felt sure that she recognized the voice of Noel Duke.

Then she heard the Frenchman, Monsieur Victor—she was sure it was he—"Zat I can not do, monsieur; it would ruin the reputation of my house. Ladies would be afraid to come here; a lady must be always protect."

"But I will pay you—I will pay you more than—"

"Bah, what is money to you? You laugh, monsieur, I laugh at your money."

The men tried to be cautious; Anita could not hear what was said; only a broken sentence or two came up; that was all—not enough for her to understand. But they were talking earnestly.

The Frenchman's voice rose again: "Vair good; you go away; you come to his house no more; zen I say nothing; no one shall ever know."

not yet prepared, ma'm'selle," Monsieur Victor apologized, "but—"

"Open this door, open this door," Alice demanded so vigorously that Victor took the key from Artemise and threw the room open.

Alice stepped inside, with Anita immediately behind her, both their faces turned toward Mrs. Ashton's bed. They barely crossed the threshold, then halted, staring and bewildered. There was no bed; it was a strange room; neither of them had ever seen it before.

There was no bed with green curtains, no crusader tapestry; no Charlotte Corday on the wall; no Spanish cabinet—nothing that they recognized.

"Why—this is not—mother's room," Anita's eyes took in every detail at a glance—coats hanging on chairs, towels thrown across a screen, a shaving-stand, a line of shoes, a dressing-gown, and slippers. It was a man's bedroom, she drew back.

The low Napoleon bed in the far corner had been slept in, and was still disordered; the heavy center table, the pictures on the wall—everything was unfamiliar.

"We have made a mistake," Anita admitted, and backed out into the hall. "I thought," stammered Alice, "that this was my mother's room. Where is she?"

"Your mother?" the Frenchman repeated, in a tone so utterly blank that it sent a shiver through the blue-eyed girl.

"Yes, my mother; we left her in here last night; I thought it was this room."

"I do not comprehend ma'm'selle," "No," it was not this room," Alice looked in again—"no, it was not this room."

The hall was very quiet. Anita could hear the parrot's chatter in the court below, the splashing fountain, the "coo-coo-coo" of the pigeons—even the scraping of Hippolyte's broom came to her from the banquette. All around her and about her was the settled serenity of the Creole life. Yet she began to fear—and tried to keep Alice from seeing it.

Anita glanced from the politely attentive face of Monsieur Victor to Alice's round blue eyes, startled and wide open. Then she looked again into that unfamiliar room. It was very puzzling, but of course nothing could have happened.

"Maybe, maybe," she suggested, as if trying to reassure herself—"maybe it's the next room; but I felt sure that this was the one. May we look?"

"Certainement," as you please, ma'm'selle."

Monsieur Victor, courteous and incredulous, opened door after door.

There were six rooms in that part of the house; three on either side of the hall, and all rented to carnival visitors. One of these rooms the girls had occupied, and in one they felt sure they had left Mrs. Ashton. But which? As Monsieur Victor opened the doors the anxious girls peered in. They found nothing.

Alice caught him by the arm. "Monsieur Victor, it was in the room with the great big bed in it—with the green silk curtains—you remember the room that you put mother in last night?"

The Frenchman smiled indulgently, and looked blank.

Cataract Cannot Be Cured.

LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease, can have little or no effect on the disease.

The full number of laborers to be furnished under this initial proposal must arrive within the isthmian canal zone on or before January 7, 1907, or within three and one-half months from the time the award is made.

The contractors are liable to fines of $10 for each person not supplied within that period. The laborers shall be subjected to physical inspection and personal identification at the expense of the canal commission at ports of embarkation and upon arrival of laborers upon the zone.

Any individual laborer may be discharged at any time for cause by the chief engineer of the canal work and when discharged must be deported by the contractors.

Contractors must report, at their own expense, to the place of original embarkation, all Chinese who at any time have ceased working for the commission, or who have become permanently disabled, while in the service of the commission, together with their wives and families.

Laborers are desired from the southern provinces of China and such persons only will be accepted as have been accustomed to climatic and physical conditions as nearly similar as may be experienced on the isthmus of Panama. No laborers will be accepted who have been brought from any part of the Hawaiian Islands.

Plan for Identification.

Exact regulations will be made as to the personal identification of each Chinaman coming within the zone. The contractor is required to give security to the republic of Panama that Chinese laborers and families shall be promptly deported upon completion of their terms of service.

The contractor shall agree that neither slave nor involuntary servitude shall be permitted with respect to any of the laborers and that they shall at all times receive just and humane treatment.

INVITES BIDS FOR COOLIE LABORERS

CANAL BOARD READY TO EMPLOY CHINESE WORKMEN.

CONTRACTORS TAKE RISK

Commission Will Not Be Liable for Damages on Account of Disability or Death by Accident or from Disease.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Specifications for bids to furnish Chinese labor for the construction of the Panama canal were issued Monday by the isthmian canal commission. The basis for bidding is invitations for 2,500 coolies, although it is made clear that the commission may call for such additional numbers of Chinese laborers as it may need, should the experiment be successful, but the number shall not exceed 2,000 per month. All proposals must be received not later than 10 a. m., September 20, at which time they will be opened. The usual conditions regulating the competitive bidding for government supplies is prescribed by the specifications.

Chinese laborers will be required to work ten hours each day. Overtime will be paid in excess of ten hours and for all the work upon Sundays or holidays at the rate of time and a half.

Contractors Assume Claims.

Extra precaution has been taken by the commission, in its specifications, to provide against liability for damages or indemnity on account of the death or disability of any laborer or employee by accident or disease. The contractor must accept the responsibility for any such damages maintained by legal claim.

Laborers coming under this contract will be provided, free of charge, with lodgings, bunkhouses, storehouses, wood or other fuel for cooking purposes, necessary water for domestic and bathing purposes, transportation over the Panama railroad when engaged in the performance of duty, burial grounds, suitable quarantine stations when required, sanitary arrangements, necessary medicines and medical and surgical treatment with subsistence during such time as any said persons shall be in the hospitals. No wages shall be paid to any laborer, however, during illness or absence from work, either in quarters or in hospital. Chinese physicians are required to report and be under the control of sanitary officials designated by the commission, and may be removed and discharged in their discretion. Families and children will be allowed to accompany the laborers in the proportion of 15 per cent of the total number of Chinese employed at any time.

May Discharge Laborers.

WANTS GIANT WARSHIPS

Best Way to Preserve Peace, Says Captain Hobson.

FAVORS THE DREADNOUGHT TYPE

Former Naval Constructor Says the United States Should Build Three of World's Biggest Battleships Each Year—Declares Clash With Japan Can Be Prevented Only by a Great Pacific Fleet.

Warships of 25,000 tons displacement instead of 20,000 and plenty of them are what the American navy needs, according to Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, formerly of the United States navy, who is assured of election to congress from the Sixth Alabama district to succeed John Hollis Bankhead.

Captain Hobson in an interview at Washington discussed many phases of the naval problem of the United States, says the New York Globe. He declared a greater navy alone would prevent a clash between America and Japan, and as an exponent of the greater navy Hobson intends to do all the hard work possible when he gets to congress. He believes in the big battleship both as a fighting machine and a peace preservative.

"I am in favor of building a warship of the Dreadnought type," he said. "Only I would go farther: I would build battleships of 25,000 tons instead of 20,000, and I would build three of them a year. Moreover, I would equip them each with four thirteen-inch guns and twelve twelve-inch. The twelve inch gun has to be handled by machinery and it is just as easy to handle a thirteen inch. It has been the American naval practice from the beginning to outclass the foreign ships, to be one class better in guns and speed. This practice should be continued."

The increased expense would not be burdensome, Captain Hobson maintains, and, besides, it would be economy in the long run. A formidable American navy, he holds, is the best possible guarantee of the peace of the United States and the world. He is getting his Chautauqua audiences to adopt resolutions to be sent to representatives and senators advocating not only a progressive naval program, but general treaties of arbitration and a permanent international congress to assemble periodically. A great number of these resolutions have reached members of the house and senate.

Regarding the proposal of the Italian warship designer Cuniberti to plan a battleship that will far outstrip the Dreadnought, Captain Hobson does not believe the Italian government can afford to build such a monster. Still he thinks there is no reason why the United States should not far exceed the Cuniberti proposal. He believes in submarines and torpedo craft as auxiliaries, but declares it is on the big battleship, whose military weight increases with its volume, that reliance must be placed when it comes to a contest for control of the sea.

Whether the United States and Japan clash depends, in Captain Hobson's opinion, on just one thing—whether America maintains naval superiority in the Pacific. He discussed the present friction with Japan over the open door in Manchuria and the danger of a conflict ultimately growing out of it.

"Japanese goods and Japanese people are getting the advantage in Manchuria," he said. "Japan is reaching out to control the trade and commerce of Manchuria and the far east. Japan was unquestionably back of the Chinese boycott. In her efforts to capture the trade of Manchuria and China she has the backing of China herself. One cannot blame Japan for seeking to further its interests."

"Whether American interests are regarded depends on whether our navy in the Pacific is superior to the Japanese navy. So long as it is superior we shall receive consideration at Japanese hands. Otherwise we shall not. Without a superior navy in the Pacific the rights of our merchants and manufacturers in Manchuria and the far east will be overridden, and then there will be no end of trouble and controversy, and war will undoubtedly come out of it."

"Can the American navy lick the Japanese?"

"The American navy cannot get within a thousand miles of making an adequate attack on the Japanese. It has no base from which to operate. There is no properly protected base in Hawaii and none in the Philippines. We have no base to operate from to protect our own territory in the far east. Eight years have gone by since we came into possession of the Philippines, and we have done almost nothing to prepare for their defense."

"Japan in case of war would lack a proper base from which to attack us. At the same time, as things stand now, Japan would come much nearer capturing the Philippines than you or I like to imagine possible. I do not mean to imply that the American navy force in far eastern waters would not give a good account of itself. But we would not be able to spare a sufficient force from the navy for use in the Pacific to cope with the Japanese navy."

TESTS TO STOP CRIME

Successful Results Expected From Operations on Brains.

CHILDREN PUT UNDER THE KNIFE

Pennsylvania Society to Protect Children From Cruelty First American Organization of Its Kind to Adopt This Course—Some New York Doctors Believe Success Can Be Attained—"Not," Says Dr. Coeur of Brain Operations.

Following out the theories of the country's foremost physicians and the recent rulings of the juvenile courts, the Pennsylvania Society to Protect Children From Cruelty, working in conjunction with Director Coplin of the bureau of health and charities and Chief Abbott of the bureau of health, has instituted the practice of performing operations upon the children given into its charge where medical opinion is rendered that such a course is likely to prevent a criminal career, says a Philadelphia special dispatch to the New York Herald.

The first subjects of these experiments were recently operated on at the infirmary of the society in Philadelphia, which was the first organization of its kind in the United States to adopt this course. In all seven children were put under the knife by a number of Philadelphia's most prominent surgeons, who performed operations of varied nature, from the most delicate to ones of minor importance, calculated to improve the mental and moral condition of the patients.

There were two operations on brains, three on eyes and two minor operations for nervousness, and all, it is believed, will be successful.

The children are but a few of the number examined by Dr. L. C. Wessels and Dr. A. C. Butcher, detailed to the task by Director Coplin, and a number of similar operations will be performed within a short time with the same purpose in view. Thus far only those children have been examined who are in the temporary custody of the society. Where such children are found by the examining physicians to be apparently destined to a criminal career through some physical defect the parents of the children are consulted, and if permission is obtained the operation is performed. (The obtaining of the parental consent is compulsory under the law.)

For over two weeks the examinations have been going on, the most minute inquiries being made by the examining physicians into the past history of the children and their parents, as well as questions bearing upon their present health and condition. As a result a campaign against criminality has been instituted by the society, which medical experts believe will be of immense value in suppressing tendencies for evil in the children brought into the jurisdiction of the juvenile court, and the physicians, interested in the idea believe that in many cases the entire future of the little patients will be altered for the better as a result of the operations they are performing.

The total number of children examined is 147. About 50 per cent have been found to be suffering from refraction of the eyes. Glasses have been ordered for all these, and, wherever possible, the parents have been required to meet the cost of the glasses, but where they are unable to do so the society furnishes them.

Dr. Alfred Gordon, one of the operating surgeons, reports that he has discovered a surprisingly large number of cases of feeble-mindedness among children supposed to be the victims of cruelty, who are really in a condition bordering closely upon imbecility and calling for constant and patient care of a character their busy parents are unable to give them. It is proposed that these children in many cases shall be sent to the institution for the feeble-minded which is to be built at Spring City, where the evil can be corrected to a great extent and perhaps result in the total cure of the children, who would otherwise be turned out upon the world misunderstood and regarded as common criminals. It is believed that the criminal instinct in their brains, caused by the defect, would increase as they grow older.

Medical men in Philadelphia are greatly interested in the new and unprecedented move of the society, and the most prominent of Philadelphia surgeons have volunteered their services in the cause.

Dr. J. H. Burtenshaw of New York remarked that such experimental operations as those detailed from Philadelphia had been conducted in various insane hospitals and in prisons with favorable results. He thought that Philadelphia and Philadelphia physicians and surgeons, led by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell and Dr. A. C. Abbott, had accomplished more with these operations than any other city.

He knew, through a young student friend, that much had been tried along the same line with excellent results in a Toronto hospital. Children with demonstrated criminal tendencies, children already sent to reformatories, had been operated upon in the last two years with distinct and beneficial results. He said that it frequently had been found that children with bad tendencies not inherited could be somewhat deprived of these tendencies by an operation on the skull.

There would be found a matter together of the membranes of the brain close to or adhering to the skull in such cases usually. If the surgeons were successful in locating where that condition had developed—sometimes it developed from an accidental blow—an operation would relieve it.

"Of course," Dr. Burtenshaw remarked, "the work at present is tentative and in a way experimental, but there have been definite and hopeful results in changing tendencies not inherited."

Dr. W. B. Noyes of Columbus hospital, in New York, said that in certain cases any sort of an operation would sometimes stir a brain with benefit.

"In any case where there is a normal defect which may be due to an obvious injury to the head, it is well recognized that it is good surgery to operate. If there is a depression of the skull or other indication which might bear relation to the criminal tendency or the weakness present in the patient an operation is justified, but scarcely otherwise."

Dr. Coeur of Roosevelt hospital, in New York, said that the Philadelphia operations were interesting and the results would be noted.

"As to operations on the brain for the purpose of correcting criminal instinct, we believe as a rule that it is all rot and partakes of chicanery. We cannot create a new man, or change the particular character of an individual's brain. As to the operations on the eyes and other parts of the body, we deal with a purely physiological question and know that results may be accomplished."

"Eye strain may cause a tendency to crime, and proper treatment may correct it. Physical conditions often prompt bad mental conditions, and these are possible of being corrected in a legitimate and scientific manner. Beyond that we do not know much about curing criminal instinct from a medical or surgical point of view."

"Great progress has been made in the study of the brain, but not in the sense of correcting the criminal instinct. Neurologists have as a rule had ample opportunity to study the brains of criminals and of ignorant persons, and of recent years educated persons have yielded their brains in the interest of science. All the examinations made, however, reveal but little difference between brains of ignorant or criminal men and those of educated men. In one instance a portion of an educated man's brain was found to be slightly larger than that of the average ignorant man's brain, but we cannot tell whether it was due to education or to some other cause."

Dr. Baumann of St. Mark's hospital in New York said:

"New York physicians will naturally watch with interest the experiments in Philadelphia. We have never had any of that kind in New York that I have heard of. There were a few in Toledo, O., a year ago, and I understand they proved very successful. Of course, if good results are accomplished operations of that character will doubtless be tried in this city."

Dr. Keats of Bellevue hospital said: "Operating on the brain to correct criminal tendency is far-fetched. I doubt if anything beneficial could be accomplished, even if the patient recovered from the operation. There have been operations on the brain for epilepsy, but I believe in most cases the patients died. As to the operations on the eyes and body, some good may be accomplished. I do not know that surgical operations to cure criminal tendencies have ever been performed here, but if it be demonstrated that they are possible and successful I have no doubt the subject would be promptly taken up."

"Operations on the skull," observed Dr. David Bovard, Jr., of New York, "are generally of service where there has been an injury which results in a pressure on the brain. If these operations were of that sort they are likely to be fortunate. But to operate without any indication as to where the trouble lies would of course be operating in the dark."

More Chewing Tobacco Used.

One of the largest retail tobacco dealers in the United States says that the consumption of chewing tobacco has increased almost 50 per cent in five years. He attributes this increase to the automobile, because it is impossible to enjoy a cigar or pipe while whizzing along in a motor car. There is also danger of sparks or ashes from the lighted cigar or pipe getting into the eyes.

WILD ANIMAL WONDERS.

Ringling Brothers' Menagerie, Rarest and Largest Collection in the World.

The menagerie collection of Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows is the most extensive and valuable in America. Such exceedingly rare animals as the rhinoceros, hippopotamus, the giraffe (of which they have two), baby elephant, horned horse, polar bear, black vauk, white yak, tapir and baby black tigers and Bengal tigers are in the zoo. It requires 108 cages and dens to house the splendid collection of rare wild animals carried by the Ringling Brothers. The Ringling herd of forty elephants is a wonderful sight and represents twice as many as ever owned by any other circus.

Three large groups of these burly beasts are used for performing acts, and the intelligence they display, under the direction of their trainer, Pearl Souder, opens a new chapter in the patient scientific work of wild animal education. The ponderous wild creatures play at mimic war, dance dreamy waltzes, lively two-steps and stately minuets; enact amusing skits, stand on their heads and balance their monster bodies, with the skill and guiding sense of human performers. They even make tuneful music upon gigantic instruments and go through a military drill with amazement and precision. All these wonders of the most progressive modern and the biggest and best circus exhibitions on earth, Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows can be seen at Jamesville Friday, August 31.

Two performances will be given, at 2 o'clock and at 8 o'clock. Tickets of admission and reserved numbered seats may be secured show day at exactly the same price charged at the ticket wagons on the circus grounds at the People's Drug Store.

Horse inferno.

"Paris is the inferno of horses" is a very old aphorism. French cabmen and carters have in general little love for the horse. Many consider this wretched quadruped as a simple tool, a motor with four feet, rather than as a precious servant worthy of regard and consideration. Not a day passes in the capital without one witnessing revolting brutality, often coupled with real stupidity.
